Fr. John Paul's Spiritual Brew

Palm Sunday marks the beginning of Holy Week, inviting us to journey with Christ through the highs of praise and welcome, to the depths of betrayal and suffering. This week, we hear the Passion narrative from both Luke and John, immersing us in the profound mystery of Jesus' mission-his life, death, and resurrection.

Where do we find ourselves on this Palm Sunday? Especially in a world overwhelmed by war and conflict-in Ukraine, Russia, Africa, Palestine, Israel, the United States, and so many other places. The weight of these realities presses upon us, making this Lent feel different. Many have shared with me a sense of confusion, a fog that clouds reason, emotions, and decision-making. It's remarkable, the burdens we carry-both seen and unseen.

And yet, even in the midst of this uncertainty, Lent continues to call us toward transformation. However small, however subtle, have we sensed any change within ourselves this season? Or do we feel as though Lent has slipped past us, leaving us longing for more?

Wherever we stand today, Christ is present. Perhaps He is whispering, "Rise and walk... your sins are forgiven." Or maybe He is calling us to open our hearts to something new, even in the face of fear and hesitation. As we step into Holy Week, may we rise-not in frantic anxiety, but with eyes open, hearts transformed, and hands extended in love and service to those in need.

For this is what Jesus did. And this is what we, as a people blessed by God's grace, are called to do-living as witnesses to Christ's spirit of truth and love.

Lord, may we practice loving those who are difficult to love, not counting the cost, or expecting anything in return.

Amen. Alleluia

Fr. John Paul's Letter

My Dear St. Thomas More Newman Center Community,

I hope this letter finds you well and that your Lenten season is off to a blessed start. On Ash Wednesday, our chapel was filled to capacity with students throughout the day. We held two Liturgy of the Word services and three Masses, each with the distribution of ashes. It was truly inspiring to witness so many students actively engaging in this sacred time of reflection and renewal.

As we enter this season of Lent, we are invited to deepen our faith through prayer, fasting, and almsgiving—practices that cultivate a greater sense of hope, love, and devotion.

However, over the past several months, we have faced significant increases in our operational costs. Utility expenses have risen, retreat center fees have gone up, food prices have climbed due to greater student participation, and overall program costs have grown as we continue to serve more students.

Additionally, an unexpected and costly issue has arisen: the water pipes in my casita, which had been functioning without issue for nearly a century, began to fail. Persistent puddles on my kitchen floor led to the discovery of a spraying pipe that required immediate repair, along with another pipe that was on the brink of failure. These repairs cost us $1,500, but we also uncovered mold and asbestos, which resulted in nearly $22,000 in unplanned expenses. Thankfully, our diocesan property insurance covered $10,000 of that amount.

As we work to manage these costs, we are also looking ahead to ensure the long-term sustainability of the Newman Center. To do this, we are focused on building an endowment that will support three key areas:

1. Student Ministry programs
2. Building and grounds maintenance
3. Ongoing operational expenses

Thanks to the generosity of Humberto Lopez, who has pledged a $250,000 matching grant, we are making strides in this direction. I ask for your prayerful consideration in offering support at any level you are able.

In addition to grants, we are focusing on three strategies to stabilize our budget:

1. Securing larger donations to help build the endowment.
2. Increasing our weekly collection by $3,000 to comfortably cover costs and prepare for unforeseen expenses.
3. Encouraging both students and non-students to contribute through Venmo, electronic giving, and weekly donations. Even $3 to $5 per student per week can make a significant impact when combined with the faithful contributions of our regular donors.

I recognize that the recent transition of Bishop Weisenburger to Detroit, the pause of the diocesan-wide capital campaign, and the anticipated appointment of a new bishop for Tucson may raise questions about the future of the Newman Center and our needs. The good news is that the Diocese remains committed to the Newman Center project during this time of transition, and management of this project has been entrusted to the Catholic Foundation. While I don't yet have the specifics, I anticipate that once Bishop Weisenburger is installed as Archbishop of Detroit on March 18, and an Apostolic Administrator is appointed for the interim period, a plan for moving forward on various projects, including ours, will be put in place.

I hope this brings some clarity during this time of change. Our pastoral staff, though small, is dedicated and capable. However, we cannot sustain our current level of activity without ensuring the necessary funds to support it.

Since my arrival at Newman in the fall of 2016, my vision has been to establish a substantial endowment for the Newman Center, separate from the generous support provided by the Newman Foundation, the Sustaining Board, occasional diocesan contributions, and weekly collections. This would allow us to reduce the need for constant appeals for financial support as costs rise or unexpected maintenance issues arise.

As we approach the 100th anniversary of the Newman Center next year, we must also begin planning for this significant milestone, which will require additional effort and resources.

If you are able and willing to support this mission, I would love to speak with you about how you can contribute. Your stewardship—however you are called to give—will help to further the mission of the St. Thomas More Newman Center and continue to transform the lives of our students.

Thank you for all that you do for our community.

Very respectfully yours in Christ,

Fr. John Paul Forté, O.P.
Pastor
