Fr. John Paul's Spiritual Brew

Shake the Dust from Your Feet"

I remember, as a child, coming home from a rainy day or a trip to the beach, and being told to stop at the door and shake off the water or sand from my shoes, umbrella, or clothes. There was always a designated place to do this—a threshold where we left behind what didn't belong inside. It wasn't about punishment or shame; it was about protecting the home—keeping it clean, peaceful, and livable.

In the Gospel, Jesus sends his disciples out to preach the Good News of God's kingdom. He instructs them to travel lightly—to take only what's necessary and leave behind whatever might burden or distract them. If they are not welcomed in a town, they are not to argue or linger in bitterness—but instead, to shake the dust from their feet and move on.

It's a powerful image, especially for us today. We live in a time when our world, our nation, and our personal lives are heavy with anxiety, division, and uncertainty. Hope can feel distant. The "dust" we carry—from technology overload, addictive patterns, co-dependent relationships, workaholicism, or fear of change—can cling to us like sand after the shore. And over time, it clouds our sense of peace, purpose, and trust in God's movement in our lives.

Jesus is not scolding. He's offering freedom. "Shake it off" He says—not in denial, but in faith. Let go of what weighs you down, what dims your hope, what distracts you from the mission of love, justice, and healing. Not everything belongs in the house of your spirit.

May we have the grace and courage to travel lightly—to carry what sustains us and to "shake off" what hinders us—so that we may walk with clarity, compassion, and joy as bearers of God's presence in the world. "Love your enemies. Do good. Expect nothing in return."

Amen! Alleluia! 🙏☀️
